Scholarship Group Mails Certificate

The Beta Chapter of Alpha Phi Sigma, an honorary scholarship fraternity, organized at the College during last year, has mailed scholarships to the Superintendents of the First Class High Schools of the Northwest Missouri District for presentation to the valedictorians and salutatorians upon their graduation from high schools.

This work is carried on to encourage scholarship in the high schools and colleges. The primary purpose of the organization is to promote and to encourage the continuance of scholarship. Glenn Duncan, president of the organization, and other members of the organization have been doing the work involved in obtaining and mailing out the scholarships.

Home Economics Group Displays Are Interesting

Three Exhibits in Display Cases—Breakfast Cover, Baby Clothes, and Food Displays Are Shown.

During this spring term, Hazel Stroeter, from Miss Anthony's Theory of High School Teaching class 140, placed three interesting displays in the exhibit case on second floor of the Administration Building. These three exhibits were exemplary of a few of the many phases of the Home Economics field and have attracted much attention.

"Home Economics is a subject that centers around the problems of the home and other institutions whose problems are of a similar nature. It includes the study of food, shelter and clothing viewed from the standpoint of hygiene, economics and art, and as a study of the relations of the members of the family to each other and to society," quoted from Coolidge, Winchell, Spogy and Marshall. Most every other subject touches and contributes to this field—mathematics, biology, chemistry and other sciences, as well as art, literature, history, economics and sociology.

The purpose of these exhibits were: Appreciation, Information, Call attention to the values of the study of Home Economics, Emphasize better living and habits.

Only those things which attract attention and are readily understood can be shown in this way. This method gives but a mere idea of their values.

The first exhibit was that of a correctly set breakfast cover. Attractive silver, dishes and linens were used and a color scheme of green and yellow was carried out, which gave the truly cheerful atmosphere of an ideal breakfast. The food and someone to eat it, were the two missing essentials.

The most interesting display was the one of baby clothes. This apparel dated anywhere from 1860 to April, 1931 or the clothes made by the girls in Clothing Problems 130b. There was a most noticeable difference between these early and modern models. Only those who sew can appreciate the work and time spent in the making of such garments, and equally important, the eye and nerve strain of such work.

The construction of all but two or three were entirely by hand and almost perfect in workmanship. We marvel at the quality of the material, which in most instances was quite strong, though yellow from age.

The hygienic improvement was very apparent to anyone and for that reason, not to mention the ones previously given, it is a good thing the style in baby clothes has not returned to the longer clothing as it has for the adults. Most are agreed that the ready-made clothing is the most sensible—price included.

All of the things and especially the history behind them were most interesting. There was the baby dress of chemise worn by Mrs. J. A. Ford and made by her mother who was great grandmother of Mrs. Joe Jackson's children. A doll was dressed in the beautiful clothes of Joe Jackson III. (Continued on Page 2)

The Merchant of Venice Will Be Given on May 22

Seniors Add Final Touches to Shakespearean Play Which Is to Be Staged in Modern Symbolistic Style.

The members of the cast of the Senior play have been busy for some time bending efforts to produce in an excellent manner, the Shakespearean play, "The Merchant of Venice," which will be presented in the College Auditorium at 8 o'clock the evening of May 22. The players have been working under the direction of Mr. Orville C. Miller, Chairman of the department of Speech, and Carl L. Fisher, student director.

The play will be produced in a modern symbolistic style from the standpoint both of the stage settings and the casts. The effect of the whole play will be somewhat stagey, but not to a great extent. Each act will have its own symbolic lighting scheme with a stage background of silver and black. This innovation, following the trend of modernistic production should lead interest and charm to the play.

The beautiful stage scenery is being made possible through the efforts of the stage manager, Burl Zimmerman and the scenery committee, Una Moore, Helen Goslee, and George Pfaffner. To beautify the scenery a lighting system has been worked out made up of amber blue fading into moonlight blue, for the first act, which is a street scene before Shylock's home. In like manner the lighting effect has been worked out for each of the remaining scenes, the second scene being a hall in Portia's home, the third, the court room of a Venetian Magistrate, and the fourth, (Continued on Page 3)

Many See Annual May Fete Here; Three Programs

Unusual and Gigantic Production, "The Magic Flute" Pleases Large Crowds. Much Praise Is Given Producers.

It may not be true, but to some observers it seems that there is a somewhat happier smile playing over the countenance of a certain lady member of the faculty since the Annual May Fete in all its pomp and splendor, its beautiful scenery, gorgeous costumes, unique acting and dancing has come with its more than usual troubles to some, and its happiness and beauty for others, to S. T. C.—and again has disappeared from the campus.

The smile belongs to a lady none other than Miss Nell Martindale, head of the Womens Physical Education Department of the College, who is responsible for the successful production of one of the most interesting and attractive May Fetes which the College has ever undertaken.

Some comments made in comparing this year's Fete with that of last year, have left the impression that the authors of the comments were just a little undecided as to which performance they enjoyed the most. Those who are especially fond of small children and who are interested in small folk lore seemed to favor last year's production, "The Wizard of Toyland," slightly, but those who are not especially interested in the tiny children seemed to enjoy the antics of the older young people, as featured this year, slightly more.

Press comments have sung nothing but praises for those who organized, staged, and had a part in the gigantic and unusual production, which depicted naturally and artistically the Polish village with its several hundred inhabitants, recorded their reactions to the lover trials and tribulations of Luc and Lisa, held their attention so completely while the love course ran its way over the dark and rough places to (Continued on Page 3)

Bearcats Place Third In State Meet at Cape

Dale St. John Now Holds State Record in Hurdles, Kirksville and Springfield Tie for First Places.

Coach Davis is fairly well pleased with the showing his Bearcat tracksters made in the M. I. A. A. meet at Cape Girardeau, Friday night, May 15, in which his boys placed third, while Kirksville and Springfield tied for first place.

Five track and one field event records were broken in the meet in which Maryville scored 39 3-4 points, while the Bears and the Bulldogs each scored 43 points and Warrensburg scored 23 3-4 points to place fourth. Cape Girardeau was fifth with 16 1-2 points.

The meet was fast since the weather was almost perfect for the night affair and the track was in perfect condition.

Dale St. John the lanky, quiet Freshman Bearcat hurdler, was picked up at the Hospital in Maryville to make the trip to Cape. He had been confined with a boil on his leg. He topped the low hurdles in 25.5 seconds to break the State mark of 26 seconds set by Reynaud of Springfield in 1926. St. John also won the high barriers in 15.7 seconds, one-half second slower than the record.

Pat Beall of Kirksville set two new records, taking the mile in 4 minutes 27.3 seconds, and the two mile in 10 minutes 8 seconds. The mile and two-mile records were held by Fite of Springfield who made them in 1928 and 1927. The mile record was 4 minutes 31.5 seconds while the two-mile was 10 minutes 31.5 seconds.

Charles Childress, Warrensburg sophomore, broke his own record in the pole vault, leaping 12 feet 2 1/2 inches. His old record set last year was 11 feet 9 3-4 inches.

Cecil Hayden of Kirksville ran the 880-yard run 1.1 seconds faster than he did a year ago, to break his own record in that event. The mark he set was 2 minutes 1 second.

The sixth record to go by the boards was the mile relay. The Springfield team dashed the four quarters in 3 minutes and 30 seconds to tear down the old record of 3 minutes 32.4 seconds made by the Warrensburg Mules in 1928.

The Bulldogs captured six first places in the meet, twice as many as did the Bears, but the Springfield team had a balanced squad, and seconds, thirds and fourths offset the firsts of Kirksville to the extent that these schools tied for first place. The Bearcats took four first places, two seconds, five thirds, and four fourths, one of which was a tie. St. John took two firsts, both hurdles events; James Stubbs took a first in the 220-yard dash and second in the 100-yard dash; Carl King took second in the two mile run; Robert Mutti took thirds in the mile and two-mile runs; Wendell Culp took third in the 440-yard dash; Marion Search took first in the javelin throw; Albert Gray took fourth in the 880-yard run; James Sealey took fourth in the discus throw; Robert Burns tied for fourth in the high jump; and the Bearcats took third in both the relay events.

The summaries:

COLLEGE OATH
"We will never bring disgrace to this college, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideal and sacred things of the college. We will never and obey the college laws and do our best to make it like a respected and revered in others. We will transmit this college to those who come after us, greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

COMMON CLAY
A beautiful vase in a museum in an ancient town caught my attention. I asked the guide of what substance the vase was made. His reply interested me. "Of common clay," he remarked.

Of course this common clay was moulded by the hands of a man who had an uncommon sense of proportion and grace of line. Some artist with an uncommon eye for beauty of color tinted it. The result was an uncommon vase made of common clay.

Often we do not realize the fine possibilities that lie in the humblest life. There is almost no degree of excellence barred from anyone who will give his constant effort to his work. Mr. Edison is quoted as saying, after trying a certain experiment some 3,000 ways and failing each time, "I know 3,000 ways the thing can not be done."

I know a farmer who makes a wonderful success of his work. His one passion seems to be to do a little better each year. He is something of a marvel to lesser men who have not his quality of tenacity or purpose. Yet he is of common clay, but with an uncommon ambition to succeed.

It is generally accepted that a man's life is what he makes it. Shall you, and I, who are of common clay, climb a little nearer to the stars in our earnest efforts to make the most of our life's work, the humble and unadorned? Let us prove that the we are of common clay, heart and soul and character of each of us is cast in an uncommon mould.

—Missouri Ruralist.

For Prohibition

The student officers of the Wesley Foundation of Ohio held a conference in Columbus on January 31, 1931, at which seven colleges and universities were represented. Resolutions were adopted declaring the students' belief in prohibition as the best yet discovered method for obtaining temperance, and expressing the conviction that the ultimate solution of temperance and of prohibition will be solved by the American youth and students who have recently become of voting age, and who will become of voting age in the next few years.

To that end the Wesley Foundation conference was directed to address a petition to all agencies which support and foster prohibition, urging a nationwide educational campaign to be directed to the American youth and students setting forth to the American youth and students the facts about the eighteenth Amendment and the true conditions relating to drink and the drink traffic since the amendment has been in force.

Sigma Tau Gamma Has Annual Formal

Blue and white, fraternity colors, predominated in the simple decorations of the Country Club when Sigma Tau Gamma entertained with their annual spring formal, from nine until twelve-fifteen o'clock Saturday night, May 8. A large reproduction of the fraternity crest, a shield, was placed at the south end of the room.

Music for the affair was furnished by a nine-piece orchestra, under the direction of Ted Breddlove, playing from the recess formed by the north entrance to the club building. Punch, and cake decorated with the fraternity letters, were served during the evening.

Light for the dance was furnished by antique wrought iron table lamps, upon each of which was the crest of the fraternity. These lamps were later presented as favors to each of the guests.

Mrs. Cora Bell Gray, house-mother, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Mounce were chaperones. Mr. Mounce is fraternity sponsor.

Y. M. Gospel Team Gives Two Programs

Large crowds attended the Mother's day services given Sunday, May 10, at Breckenridge and Sunday evening at Oregon, by the Y. M. C. A. Gospel Team of the College.

The Methodist and Christian church congregations united for the program Sunday morning at the Methodist church in Breckenridge. Seats had to be placed in the aisles to accommodate all that attended. A part of the group was entertained at noon at a basket dinner at the Christian church, while others were guests in private homes.

The young people of Oregon entertained the Team Sunday evening. The auditorium was well filled for the 8 o'clock program. Those who made the trip were Albert Hagan, Dale Missilldine, Walter Allen, William Alsop, Ben Thompson, William Person, Curtis Sherman, Owen Thompson, Halbert Catterson, Orville Kelim, E. N. Brinkman, James Alsop, and Joe Trullinger.

Tri Sigs Formal Is Held Saturday May 9

Although the Country Club Saturday night, May 9, had been transformed into a miniature North Pole, guests at the Sigma Sigma Sigma formal dance found a warm reception awaiting them. The northern lights from behind the orchestra glowed on frosted windows and cast jagged shadows upon the frames. The aurora borealis reflected also upon the sorority crest on the wall and the triangle of purple and white, sorority colors, on the ceiling. The sparkling snow-white igloo in another part of the room caught the rays of the lights. A polar bear stood in the snow beside the igloo, his gaze extended toward the icebergs about him. Two white blocks had been removed from the igloo and it was from those that punch was served by Dorothy Sandison and Jean Montgomery. Each guest received, on one of the specialty dances, a purple and white pennant bearing the words, "North Pole." Small purple sleds, grouped on each side of the igloo, served as a means for matching partners for one dance. Later in the evening the favors, cigarette cases with the Sigma Sigma Sigma Greek letters upon them, were brought in, heaped upon a sled, and delivered to the young men by Mary Bruce and Beverly Blagg. The guests departed amidst a snow-storm of confetti.

The chaperones were Miss Sharley K. Pike, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Scott, Miss Grace Langan and Miss Lois Halley, and Mrs. Paul Baur of Cairo, Ill.

Representatives were: Miss Katherine Gray, Alpha Sigma Alpha; Miss Aileen McFarland, Pi Omega Pi; Miss Sylvia Glauser, Pi Gamma Mu; Miss Hazel Streeter, Kappa Omicron Phi; Miss Flora Culver, Sigma Tau Delta; George Adams, Sigma Tau Gamma; Glenn Duncan, Alpha Phi Sigma; and

Group Displays

The oldest article was a chest for baby clothes, dating back 107 years and owned by Mrs. Laura Beal. Marjorie Kelley contributed two articles belonging to her grandfather 73 years ago.

Dresses 60 years old, which had been worn by Miss Laura B. Hawkins were shown, also those of Mrs. Charles Bell, which had been worn by her sister and were 70 years old.

The only sewing machine-made clothing was that made by the mother of Mrs. Fred Kurtz about the time of the Civil War.

The most unique were the tiny clothes worn by a brother of Loraine Harris when he was ten months of age. The dress and a picture of it as it appeared on a member of the present

College faculty caused a deal of guessing. The life-size doll dressed in modern baby clothes was furnished by Montgomery Ward and Company.

Other articles were furnished by Marion Tolkassen and Eleanor Nicholas.

More and more attention is being given to food, and most certainly, still more should be given to this vital subject. The lack of a knowledge, especially of Calories, Vitamins and Minerals are responsible for all too much abnormal health and illness. Papers, magazines and articles should be read for their true value for new facts are constantly coming to light.

Those who have arranged the display hope that the student body and others have found these exhibits of value and have profited by them.

Post-Dispatch Carries Article By Instructor

"Labor and Machines" Is Title of Article By Mr. E. W. Mounce, Which Is Carried in City Papers.

A review of an article which recently appeared in the editorial columns of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and in the Maryville Daily Forum, and which was written by Mr. E. W. Mounce chairman of the Commerce Department of the College is given below.

The review of the article, which deals with labor and machines in their relations to business depression, is as follows:

It has long been the contention of many that labor-saving machines displace labor and that they are therefore a curse rather than a blessing to labor. While this is probably the immediate result of the invention and use of a new machine the evil is temporary. Such technological unemployment so created is not responsible for wholesale suffering among the laboring classes. Labor soon adjusts itself to the conditions and, as a result of the changes brought about by the use of the new machines the conditions of labor, as a class, are made better. For every man laid off a new job is created somewhere else. Furthermore, the saving made by the use of the machine tends to reduce the sales price of the cost of living. In other words, the dollar will buy more. This raises the standard of living for all.

It is the cyclical unemployment that gives rise to the most serious problem. This type of unemployment results from two conditions, first, to the over production of the business cycle, and secondly, to the fact that too much of the national income goes into productive goods and too little goes for the purchasing of consumable goods. These are the basic causes of the unemployment problem.

The maladjustment between production and consumption leads to technical over-production and therefore to business stagnation. This maladjustment is due to a poor distributive system. In the distribution of wealth and the national income too much flows to the production or supply side of the market and too little to the consumption or demand side of the market. This destroys the economic equilibrium and precipitates a period of depression.

Efforts should be made to correct these evils. Much could be done to "smooth out the business cycle" by the control of the rediscount rate, open market operation by the Federal Reserve Banks, business forecasting, stabilizing the dollar, etc.

The evils of maladjustment between production and consumption could be prevented by improving our system of distribution so as to turn more of the national income into the lines of production.

If an honest and courageous effort along these lines is made, we shall be able to silence those who are clamoring for a definite change in our economic foundations. We can maintain our present economic system if we are willing to make modifications here and there. These modifications must come. The only alternative is the accumulation of discontent to the point of revolution and probably a complete change in our economic foundations.

May Fete

the beautiful and happy lover's triumph, as the affair was enacted in the village.

The idea of the producers and the administration of the College that the program be made attractive to the extent that hundreds of people not only in Maryville but in Northwest Missouri and Southern Iowa, and elsewhere, will desire to see the May Fete each year, seems to be taking effect, for there were people from towns from almost every section of this territory present for one of the three programs.

The exclamations and expressions of interest and pleasure of those who happened to arrive late at one of the night performances to behold the magic wrought in the Village under the powerful flood lights, were numerous. The richness of the beautiful green lawn enclosed by the bleachers filled to capacity with the hundreds of onlookers, and backed with the groves of trees and the clusters of shrubbery which the campus so abundantly affords, and over all, the natural starry canopy of heaven, which could be seen above the brilliantly lighted enclosure, lent charm and enchantment to the scenes which only the faces of those seeing the performance could express.

In the three performances of the May Fete which were given Friday night, May 15, at 8:00 p. m., Saturday afternoon at 3:00 p. m. and again on Saturday night at 8:00 p. m., Miss Martindale was ably assisted in the staging and production by the following: Miss Elizabeth Jack of the College faculty; Miss Juanita Marsh, student assistant; Mr. U. G. Whiffen of the Industrial Arts Department; Mr. H. O. Hickernell, Director of the Orchestra; Mr. Chilton Robinson, of Maryville; and Miss Eleanor Sewell, student of the College, whose home is at Skidmore.

The music for the production was unusually well selected and fitting, and being given with distinctness and precision by the well balanced orchestra under the direction of an able leader with the student piano artist Junior Porterfield assisting, came in for its share of praise for the enchantment developed in the programs.

The scene of the story is laid in Poland about the 16th Century. At the opening of the ballet the villagers are gathered in the churchyard for a celebration. While they are dancing, an aged Marquis passes by. He is immediately impressed with the beauty and grace of Lisa and later asks the mother for her hand in marriage. Because of the prominent position occupied by the Marquis and because of his great wealth the mother is flattered at his proposal and hurriedly makes plans for the signing of the marriage contract.

While this marriage is being arranged for in the church, an old beggar appears asking for alms, but he is rudely pushed aside by the mother. Luc, who is feeling very much dejected, rushes to his aid. For this kindness, the beggar gives Luc a magic flute. This flute has the power, when played upon, to make everyone dance. The beggar disappears, and Luc begins to play and Lisa, dancing, comes from the house, where she had been sent to prepare for the wedding. Luc plays again, and to the surprise of all, those in the group from within the church appear and are unable to refrain from dancing.

The Marquis, not realizing the magic power of the flute, believes Luc possessed of the Devil and orders a trial by jury. This jury decides upon a death penalty and preparations for the execution are made. At the most tragic moment the "God of Love" is borne in upon a cloud. Up to this time he has been disguised as the beggar who presented Luc with the magic flute. As he casts aside his beggar's disguise, the mother realizes his power and rushes to him begging for forgiveness. The lovers are reunited and the general celebration changes to the merry-making in honor of the betrothal. At the close, the couple are borne away in a float which represents a journey on the sea of life.

Prof. Mehus of the Maryville State Teachers College comes to Plattsburg on Saturdays to conduct an extension class of Clinton county teachers. One thing discussed by the class is crime and prison problems. Saturday the professor and the class visited the Clinton county jail in this study, and when the members of the class left, Prof. Mehus remained a little while to talk with the two hog thieves who were in the cells. Deputy Sheriff L. P. Seacore, thinking that all the visitors had left the jail, locked the outer door while the professor was still there. About a half-hour later the members of the class began to wonder at the teacher's absence, and one suggested that possibly he was accidentally locked in the jail. Investigation revealed this to be the case, and he was released. The jail inmates had quite a bit of fun at the teacher's expense, and told him that there was no way to be heard from the jail, and that he would have to stay there until the evening inspection of the officers about five o'clock. He was glad to get out, as he had an afternoon class at Savannah to meet that afternoon.—The Plattsburg Leader.

County Supts. of N. W. Mo. Hold Meeting

The county superintendents of the Northwest Missouri District met at the College Wednesday, May 13. Mr. E. J. Kettman, Platte county chairman, was in charge of the meeting, which was called by State Superintendent of Schools, Charles A. Lee.

Mr. Lee gave a concise explanation of the survey measure which he said would be of benefit to Missouri schools. Miss Virginia Meierhoffer discussed the music program for the coming year. Mr. D. C. Rucker discussed the possible changes in the course of study for 1931-'32. President Uel W. Lamkin told of the extension work which the College has to offer, with Hubert Garrett and Miss Elizabeth White in charge of the work.

The Style Black Board

You can be "Way up North in Dixie" too—

We refer to Dixie Weave Suits—they take a lot of the hot and bother out of summer. They're porous wool or worsted suits—let the air in and the heat out.

A platinum grey Dixie with a genuine straw; a light blue shirt with a blue and orange striped tie makes about as smart a summery combination as you'll meet anywhere.

The Stroller

By I. I. I.

The Stroller has come to the conclusion that anyone who has the outlook on life that Ernest Reid has is bound to live long. Ernest, one day when things were going in reverse, remarked that he did not care when or how soon the world came to an end because then all his debts would automatically be cancelled.

A conversation overheard by the Stroller.

"Do you know anything new?"

"No, only term papers and questions."

And all the time, the Stroller was thinking about just how NEW those questions would be when examination time came around.

The "Towers" of 1931 have at last been distributed, and the Stroller has not decided whether a cyclone has hit him, or whether he is just being snowed under. He can hardly turn a corner without having to stop and write in someone's book some little token of love, mush, remembrance, or something. And most of the time it is just "something." It's deucedly tiresome, but maybe it's worth it, or will be in years to come. The Stroller likes to get out his old Towers and read what was written by other students in the way of flattery, criticism, or baloney, as the case may be. But seriously, don't you think that Flora and Dan did a pretty good job with their book this year?

The Stroller and some 600 others can now take a good deep breath and a bit of rest, since the May Fete is over. After all is said and done, it was quite a show, including Mr. Salvason's speech Friday night about the mother from Montgomery Ward and Co. Or weren't you there?

Was your mother here on Mother's Day? The Stroller's was and she ate dinner with him at Residence Hall Friday noon. And she went with him all over the campus on sight-seeing trips, including a visit to the power house, to the swimming pool, to the dormitory kitchen, and even to watch President Lamkin sitting for a painting. (Pat! Don't tell, the Seniors are doing it!) Did your mother see all these things? If not, she missed something.

Some of the tennis sharks might be interested in knowing that the boy who won the high school tennis championship in the Spring contests this year is from Liberty, and that he has a dad who came with him to see him win, and this dad can beat the son at the game any day in the year. Guess the boy really has the backing.

The Stroller just couldn't resist the temptation, and with a whole lot of other members of the student body, took a ride in the big Ford Tri-motored airplane that was flying around here Friday. Say, that's some wagon. Just like riding in a bus, though the Stroller doesn't believe Betty Price would feel like losing her cheese and crackers in just an ordinary bus ride.

Some of the inmates of Residence Hall were rather disturbed, in their slumbers last Monday night by a masculine voice coming up to the wrong window at about two A. M. and calling "Gertie". What can be the answer? And furthermore, the same girls got rather scared last Sunday night when lightning struck one of the Towers on the administration building, knocking one of the large stones off and through the roof.

Tom Hooper is reported to be ready to give dancing lessons at Residence Hall almost any evening from 7 till 9. His style of dancing is quite unique, and those interested are invited to spend an evening as spectators. By the way, Kitt and Myers join the restricted group of Residence Hall immortals, having been the latest couple to take a flop on the dance floor there.

Tom Merrick seems to have some awful interest around the Maryville high school. Don't you suppose any college girls would ride in that snappy new roadster? Bernard Cowden seems to be another of the crowd that has fallen in love with this world coming to?

"Oat" Thorburn is reported to have caught two flies (the animal, not a baseball, while talking out loud at the gym the other day. He thought it was slippery elm, and went ahead unknowingly.

So long for this year—Luck to you, mighty Seniors.

George Peck

George Peck, a former S. T. C. student, who has been teaching music at Lewes, Delaware, recently won first place in the State contests in band and orchestra. Mr. Peck, who plans to come back to the College here to finish his degree, was eligible to compete in the State contests after having won the district contests in these events.

Two hundred thirty-eight students are enrolled in the short course.

Baccalaureate For H.S. Is by Dr. LaRue

The College High baccalaureate services were held at the First M. E. Church Sunday night, May 17, the Dr. Edward I. LaRue, pastor, delivering the sermon.

Thirty-one seniors attended the service, in which Dr. LaRue charged them to "Covet the best gifts by using life aright for self-development and helpfulness of others."

May 20, before the assembly of students at the College. Congressman David Hopkins gave the address.

According to the new catalog the 1931 summer session will be divided into two terms, which is a new step for M. S. T. C.

The Summer Session begins June 1, and the first term ends July 3. The second half-term begins July 6, and ends August 7. It will be possible to make five hours of credit during each half-term, or ten hours for the entire summer term.

Bearcat Tracksters Defeat Tarkio Team

The Maryville Bearcats defeated the Tarkio track team in a dual meet held on the College field Friday night, May 8. The 103 points scored by the Bearcats were amassed in winning seven firsts, tying with other Maryville runners for first in four events, winning both of the realys, taking seven seconds, and five thirds, while the Tarkio track men scored their 33 points on three firsts, three seconds, and nine thirds.

Browning of Tarkio, and Stubbs of Maryville ran a very close race in both the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash. Browning was victor in the century in the fast time of 10 seconds. Stubbs, however, evened up the score in the 220-yard dash when he beat Browning to the string in 22 seconds flat.

Several races and field events were shared by Maryville men. King and Adams trotted to the line in the two-mile run. Borchers and Iba quit on 10 feet 6 inches after both of the Tarkio men had missed in the pole vault. Burns and Sheetz jumped 5 feet 4 inches in the high jump to tie for first. Gray and Mitzel, after running the first half of their half-mile run so fast that competition was far behind, coasted in to the tape a dead heat.
